FRENCH BLUEBEARD'S HEAD DROPS IN BASKET AT DAWN TODAY WHEN GUILLOTINE KNIFE FALLS SWIFTLY

Henri Landru, Arch Murderer, Pays With His Life at St. Pierre Prison, Versailles—Crowd Of Curious Persons Including Many Women Witness Execution—Real Wife And Children Not There

VERSAILLES France, Feb. 25—In the raw, misty dawn Henri Landru, France's arch murderer was beheaded on the guillotine before the gate of St. Pierre prison today. He had been found guilty on November 30 of the murder of ten women to whom he made love and offered marriage and a boy—the son of one of his feminine victims.

Landru protested his inocence to the very end.

"I will be brave" were the last words he uttered just before the knife fell. It was eight minutes after six when Landru's head rolled from the execution block. He carried with him into the great beyond his secret of the missing women he was convicted of killing for their savings.

Promptly at six o'clock the bugler in the neighboring barracks began to blow the reveille—a tune known to the American doughboy by the words "I can't get 'em up."

The sharp notes of the bugle officially proclaimed it daybreak. The crowd stirred expectantly knowing that Landru would soon be led forth to his doom.

Landru had been awake in the prison since four o'clock. When he was led before the gate, he stared into the crowd, but if he was looking for his real wife and his children, he was disappointed. They were not present.

At 15 minutes after five a little group of prison officers entered Landru's cell and told him to prepare for the end. The condemned man's hands were tied behind his back and his feet were loosely hobbled permitting him to shuffle down the stairs from the third cell row.

Once Landru remarked to the executioner and his assistants who were leading him to the guillotine:

"Please don't hold my arms so tight."

The doomed man spoke cheerfully and pleasantly.

As is customary in France Landru signed the prison register on his way out.

To expedite the work of the executioner a high power arc light was burning in the prison court flooding the guillotine with its rays. Landru stopped short for a moment and his body threw a heavy shadow across the foot of the death scaffold.

Landru was pale, but stood erect and appeared cool. His beard had been shaved off under the chin so that the hair would not interfere with the knife. For perhaps ten seconds Landru stood still and silent facing the guillotine.

While he hesitated the chief executioner and his assistents forced Landru forward, bending his head upon the sliding board. The instant the doomed man's head slid into the fateful aperture the knife dropped and Landru's head rolled into a basket partly filled with sawdust. The whole

NORRIS ACCUSES HOOVER OF THE LAST THRUST AT ANTI-TRUST LAW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 — Herbert Hoover's letter approving the usual practices of the trade associations, says Senator Norris, chairman, senate committee on agriculture, "repeals whatever is left of the Sherman anti-trust law."

"If it means anything," Norris told the senate, "it seems to me that it means that in the future no attempt will be made to prosecute big business because it combines or forms a monopoly, provided it is done according to the methods mapped out in this letter. . . . No doubt many of the activities so outlined would be harmless, but most of them, and all of them taken collectively, make the famous Gary dinners sink into insignificance. . . . . Under this plan big business could easily monopolize and combine to throttle competition."

Norris agreed with Senator King of Utah that the Supreme Court, in a recent decision in the hardwood lumber association case, held, directly contrarly to Hoover, that certain of these practices are in violation of the anti-trust law.

TEXTILE WORKERS RAISE HUGE FUND TO AID STRIKERS

Fifty Thousand Idle In New England To Get Material Assistance

FIGHT IS BITTER

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 - A fund of $100,000 to aid the striking New England Textile Workers is to be raised at once by the Federated Textile Unions of America. At a meeting of the provisional general board of the federated body here, it was decided not to restrict the use of the money to the relief of union members among the textile mill workers, but to use the funds for relief work among all strikers, regardless of affiliation. The resolutions adopted further pledge that "the energies of the Federated Textile Unions of America be devoted to the collection of funds for the support of the strikers in New England, numbering approximately 50,000."

The campaign for the $100,000 fund will be directed by James Pansy of Fall River, Mass., president of the American Federation of Textile operatives

Leaders of the textile unions who have returned to their homes after a two day conference here declared the workers in all the New England mill towns have entered upon the strike against a further reduction of their already meager wages with a determination to stick it out to the end. The mill workers, they said, men and women and children—for Rhode Island permits the employment of 14-year-old children in its textile mills—have reached a point where it is a question merely of whether they shall starve slowly at work or starve more quickly by strike.

And they have decided on the latter course, if necessary.

"But it will not come to that," one of the union officials said. "The New England mill owners, who for many years have ruled their employes with a despotic ruthlessness almost unmatched in American industry, have over reached themselves this time. The textile industry is not yet organized as completely and efficiently as we could wish; but it is better and more effectively organized than it ever was before, and the mill workers of the entire country will get behind the New England strikers if necessary, and stay there until they win."

STITLER'S MEN HAVE RAILROAD CROSSINGS IN EXCELLENT SHAPE

Work on the new Pennsy railroad crossing at Main-st has been completed, and the street is again open to traffic both ways. The crossing is now in excellent condition, and is expected to last indefinitely.

J. J. Stitler, north Eighth-st is foreman of the gang which has been repairing the crossings at Walnut, Main Chestnut and Locust-sts.

He recently won a $50 prizze from the Pennsy company for keeping the best section of track in this division.

His gang is now engaged in placing new ties under the track between Main and Locust-st.

Piles of worn-out cross ties burning along railroad rights of way are a fairly familiar sight. Every now and then some one observing this practice writes a letter to the management of the railroad, or more often to a newspaper, protesting against what he supposes to be a needless waste, and raising the question why the railroad companies do not allow people to take the old ties for fuel or find some other use for them.

I. D. Webner, agent of the local office, explains that in the first place it is far from true that all the old ties are burned. He says a considerable number are constantly being sold to persons living on or near the right of way at a nominal price of 10 to 15 cents each, to use for firewood.

The company does not sanction the public going promiscuously over the tracks and thru yards to gather up old ties, according to Mr. Webner. To do so, he says, would be practically letting down the bars against trespassing on the tracks, an evil which the company has fought for years.

Because the old ties are dirty, and contain slag and grit, firewood dealers will not buy them, it is said. They also claim that the ties are dried out and that their fibre is more or less crushed, so, that they burn out too quickly.

Mr. Webner says that efforts have been made to dispose of old ties in a number of other ways, including sale for wood-pulp purposes, for the extraction of chemicals, for burning and sale of the ashes for fertilizer, and for manufacture into charcoal, but without success.

The ties are of oak, and before being placed under the rails are thoroly soaked in creosote.

YOUTH'S HEAD CUT IN ACCIDENT NEAR THE HYDRO PLANT

Ralph Finnell, son of Rolland Finnell, of Coshocton Route 6, was confined to the City hospital, Saturday, suffering from a badly cut head and minor bruises as a result of an accident on the Warsaw road, opposite the Roscoe hydro plant, near Roscoe.

Finnell and a young man named Darr were riding in the latter's buggy toward Warsaw when the horse scared at a passing oil wagon on the road and ran down over the embankment. The buggy, horse and occupants went rolling down the embankment which is 100 feet long, down to the T. C. & O. railroad tracks. The horse was slightly injured and the buggy demolished. Darr was unhurt.

The bank at the point where the buggy went over, is the steepest place along the railroad track between there and Warsaw.

Immediately after the accident the Hanlon ambulance was called and Finnell was taken to the City hospital where Dr. E. M. Wright dressed the injuries. Finnell was not rendered unconscious.

PROGRESSIVES OF LATE CONFERENCE WILL MEET AGAIN IN DECEMBER, '22

William Green One Of The Committee Of 15 Chosen To Direct The Work In Coming Campaign—Will Direct Efforts Toward Election Of Candidates Friendly To Producers

(By CARROLL BINDER)

CHICAGO, Feb. 25. — A tentative alliance of progressive farmer and labor groups has been formed here and christened the Conference for Progressive Political Action. No new party was launched and no existing party was endorsed. The railway and other unions, the farmers' organizations and the Socialist and Farmer-Labor parties which participated in the conference will form committees in each state to devise the most effective means of political action in that community in the coming primaries and elections. In December the groups adhering to the conference and such other organizations as meet with its approval will assemble to consider the results of these campaigns and attempt to perfect a permanent organization. Some delegates anticipated a fusion into a single labor party.

Whilliam H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, who was instrumental in calling the meeting, was made chairman of the conference and Frederic C. Howe, secretary. The committee of fifteen which is to direct the work in the coming elections is composed of Johnston, Howe, Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the engineers; Joseph A. Franklin, president of the boilermakers; E. J. Manion, president of the railway telegraphers; Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers; William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers, Jay G. Brown, secretary of the Farmer-Labor party; Morris Hillquit, for the Socialist party; Agnes Nestor, Woman's Trade Union League, George H Griffith, National Nonpartisan League, Benjamin C. MODEL CO-OPERATIVE STATE LAW PREPARED

NEW YORK, Feb. 25 -A "Model Co-operative State Law," proposed for enactment in states where it is desired to have a co-operative stock corporation act, has been formulated and issued by the Co-operative League of America, 2 West Thirteenth St. The proposed stock corporation act is intended primarily to meet the needs of consumers' co-operative associations, and represents the results of several months' work by a special committee. Copies of the proposed law will be sent to anyone interested.

"Co-operative undertakings," says an introductory note in the pamphlet, "are entirely different in many important respects from ordinary business corporations, and must be provided for in a separate act containing safeguards and privileges which cannot be extended to private business enterprises."

THREE FRAZEYSBURG BASKETBALL TEAMS DEFEATED IN CITY

Friday the "twenty-fourth" was just as unlucky to Frazeysburg as Friday the "thirteenth," so they dropped three hard-fought basketball games to three Coshocton-co teams last night.

Bucher's high school varsity athletes took the first game by a score of 19 to 15; Mulvey's second girls' team won the second by a close score of 7 to 5 and the Roscoe Juniors trimmed the Frazeysburg Juniors at Roscoe in the third game by a big score of 38 to 9. The high school games were played at Central gym.

Bucher's aggregation won its seventh consecutive game by trimming the Muskingum-co lads. This is the third time this season that Frazeysburg has met defeat.

Last night's tilt was bitterly contested. Frazeysburg electrified the fans in the opening by getting into the lead with a barrage of baskets. Frazeysburg was the favorite in the firs' half The half ended 9 to 5. The locals were regaining their senses toward the conclusion of the first semester and were co-operating better.

In the opening of the final period Coshocton made a stubborn drive for

EXPERTS DECLARE LONG SHIFTS ARE WASTE OF ENERGY

NEW YORK.—One more body of industrial experts, after an impartial and exhaustive study of the matter, has concluded that the 12-hour shift in industry is wasteful and inefficient. This time it is the American Engineering Council of the Federated American Engineering Societies, which has just completed a nation-wide survey of what it terms this "unexplored field."

"It has been found," says the report, "that the extent of continuous operation industry outside of steel is greater than had been supposed. There are well up to 40 or 50 industries which involve a greater or smaller amount of continuous operation in all or a portion of the country's plants . . . as a class, these industries underlie a large portion of present-day industry."

The steel industry, the report continues, probably does not account for more than a fourth or fifth of the total of shift workers. "Very roughly, the number of shift workers in the United States is probably well over 500,000, tho likely not as much as 1,000,000. And the number of men on 12-hour shifts, in the period preceding the depression, was perhaps not far from 300,000, of which about as many were outside the steel industry as in the steel industry.

HEAVY EXPLOSION DAMAGES PROPERTY BUT KILLS NO ONE

Rumored To Have Been the Outcome Of Labor Troubles

OFFICIALS DENY IT

Foreman Says There Has Been No Strike At The Quarry

CHICAGO, Feb. 25—An explosion that shook the city and area for 50 miles around resulted when tons of dynamite in the stone crushing plant of the Consumers Co., at McCook, southwest of the city let go. Altho the blast was one of the most terrific ever felt in this section, so far as has been learned no one was killed and only one man injured.

Property damage will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. Officials of the Consumers Co., declared the explosion was accidental. Stories told by others, however, gave rise to the possibility that the blast may have been touched off intentionally and a rigid investigation was launched today.

It was announced that thirty tons of dynamite were stored in the powder house when the explosion occurred.

The building of quarry were blown to bits, and rocks and timbers were scattered over a radius of a mile. Thousands of windows were smashed and hundreds of buildings in Chicago and surrounding territory rocked with the force of the detonation.

F. B. Down foreman of the quarry denied that labor troubles may have been to blame for the explosion. He said there had been no strike at the quarry. He asserted the explosion must have been an accident.

An employee named Buse of the Corn products, at Argo, an adjoining suburb told a story however, that gave rise to the belief that the blast was not an accident. Buse said he saw from the sixth floor where he was employed a streak of fire moving slowly along the ground.

After the fire had crept along about 60 feet, the explosion occurred. Altho he was a mile and a half away, Buse said the explosion threw him from the window and shattered every window in the plant.

Ten minutes before the dynamite let go, the 'missionary' one of the crack passenger trains of the Santa Fe railroad passed within 150 feet of the powder house.

INCOME TAXES REVEAL MULTI MILLIONAIRES NUMBER 6,634

Five Persons Admittedly Had Incomes Of Five Millions Or More

FARM BLOC ANGRY

Average Income Of Five Per Cent Who Filed Returns $3,724

WASHINGTON.—Income tax statistics for the year ending December 31, 1919, announced by the treasury department, show that there were at least five persons with incomes of $5,000,000 or over, and that there were 6634 persons having incomes of from $90,000 to $1,000,000 a year, in that banner year of the war profiteers. The number of persons whose incomes were between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 in 1919 is not given, but those between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 were six, and those between $1,500,000 and $3,000,000 income were 20.

These figures do not reveal the number of American millionaires, because many millionaires had incomes of less than $90,000, since 5 per cent on a million is only $50,000. And it is not expected that every millionaire will confess his actual income. But the fact that nearly 6650 persons in the United States had incomes which would represent at least 5 per cent on $1,800,000, and which would average fortunes of many times that sum, indicates the high concentration of wealth in a few hands in recent years.

The average income reported by persons making a return was $3724, but only 5.03 per cent of the American people filed returns. The individual income and surtax paid under these returns for 1919 totalled $1,269,630,104.

These income statistics are issued at the moment when congress and the president are arguing the proposal that the cost of the soldier bonus proposed be laid upon the mass of consumers in the form of a sales tax. The farm bloc in congress will point to the million-dollar private incomes as one of the conspicuous sources of taxation that have been carefully protected, and that might now be tapped.

MINERS OF NOVA SCOTIA WANT THE LEASES CANCELLED

GLACE BAY, Nova Socita, Feb. 25. —The miners of Nova Scotia, comprising District 26, United Mine Workers of America, are considering in convention at Truro a resolution asking the provincial legislature to cancel all present mining leases and hand the operation of the coal mines over to the miners to be operated under provincial supervision and calling upon the government to appoint a minister of mines with the necessary technical knowledge to supervise operation and organize a sales staff to dispose of the output.

The province of Nova Scotia has retained its ownership of the coal areas and granted leases to certain operators Some leases extend for 99 years from 1893. The chief leases of these areas have been granted to the Dominion Coal Co. and to the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co. The coal mines in Cape Breton run out under the sea and are submarine areas. Owing to the entangled nature of the two leases the Dominion Coal Co. had certain areas granted them which the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co. coveted.

To get possession of these coveted areas the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Co worked upon the legislature and in spite of the opposition of the Dominion Coal Co., a law was passed in 1919 giving power to the governor-in-council to cancel submarine areas which are "not advantageously worked in the best interests of the province" and grant them to other lessees. This law was passed in a fight between rival capitalist interests The resolution of the miners to cancel the coal areas points to this legislation and declares that it need only be enlarged by supplementary legislation in order to put the miners in control.

This is the beginning of the fight in Nova Scotia for the public ownership and operation of the mines in accordance with the declaration of principles as enunciated by the international convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

SOME TRUTH FOUND IN DETROIT FIEND'S STORY OF SLAYING

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 24—The drive to determine whether a drug ring is responsible for the murder of William Desmond Taylor started when Harry N Fields under arrest in Detroit, gave a highly circumstantial version of the slaying, took on fresh impetus today

United States Assistant District Attorney Thomas Green, turned over to District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine a mass of dates regarding the activities of the drug ring at Hollywood studios.

These dates were given Green several months ago by Taylor who sought his aid in fighting the ring. Green confirmed the report that Taylor twice visited him, the occasions being about three weeks apart. Taylor, he gathered, was heart and soul in the fight against the drug traffickers. His aim was to save from their clutches a woman he is said to have loved

Altho doubt has been thrown on Field's story in some particulars confirmation has been obtained

So important has the drug angle of the investigation become that federal state, city, and county officials were today all engaged in the enquiry

Two operators of the state board of pharmacy joined in the probe today, devoting all their attention to the activities of the drug trade

Mable Norman was stricken with influenza last Monday and her condition has grown steadily worse Her physicians believe she will survive but are watching her condition anxiously. Coming so closely on her nervous collapse at the funeral of Taylor, her friends say the new attack is taxing seriously her reserve strength Every precaution is being taken at her home to secure quiet and seclusion for the famous film star who was the last to see Taylor alive.

"VCM[illegible] DRY CLEAN Things AT HOME

[illegible] few cents you can [illegible] everything.

Save $ e to ten dollars quickly by dry cleaning everything in the home with gasoline that would be ruined by soap and water—suits, coats, waists, silks, laces, gloves, shoes, furs, draperies, rugs—everything!

Place a gallon or more of gasoline in a dishpan or washboiler, then put in the things to be dry cleaned, then wash them with Solvite soap. Shortly everything comes out looking like new. Nothing fades, shrinks, or wrinkles. Do not attempt to dry clean without Solvite soap. This gasoline soap is the secret of all dry cleaning.

A package of Solvite soap containing directions for home dry cleaning, costs little at any drug store. Dry clean outdoors or away from flame.

Don't Let Children Cough at Night

It is hard on both parents and children and quite unnecessary

"Our baby had a bad cough, was nervous and kept us up almost every night. Foley's Honey and Tar stopped his cough, all its ill-effects have disappeared, and thanks to you, we all get some sleep."
W. B. Vandigrift, Smyrna, Ga.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

ANOTHER VICTORY IS ADDED BY THE HIGH GIRLS' TEAM

Coach Vitis Mulvey's second girls' team won a 4 round basketball game from the Frazeysburg varsity girls' quintet by a score of 10 to 5, following the boys' game Friday night on Central gym floor.

The girls' game pleased the fans in every respect as it was fast and furious. The first quarter ended in a tie score, 3 to 3. Coshocton made its 3 points in shooting fouls.

The second quarter was slightly livelier than the first and both teams used pass work and more science. Virginia Ulman starred at forward for Coshocton, shooting the only three baskets on her side. Miss Guida Wolfe was the chief free thrower, making four out of seven trials. Both teams played in stellar fashion.

Neither scored in the second quarter. The third period ended 7 to 5. Daisy Harris and Miss Bassett played a stubborn defensive game. Ruth Fisher shone for the visitors.

Mulvey's girls have not lost a game this season.

The Coshocton high school boys play their last game at home tonight. The contest is with the Mingo Junction aggregation. Both Mingo Junction and Frazeysburg defeated Coshocton on their own floors.

Would Make Tourists Europe's Creditors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—W. H. Lyon of Sioux Falls, S. D., a delegate to President Harding's recent farm conference came forward today with the most novel plan yet proposed for the liquidation of Europe's $11,000,000,000 debt to the United States.

He estimates that American tourists will spend nearly $1,000,000,000 a year in Europe in the next several years. His idea is for tourists to purchase letters of credit from the United States government which will be accepted as cash by European restaurants, hotels, railroads, etc., who will turn them over to their governments who will take off that much from their financial obligation to the United States.

Read What Mrs. Lucas Writes Concerning Her Troubles, Which May be Just Like Yours

St. Louis, Mo.—"I had troubles that all women are apt to have, with pains in my back, weak, tired, nervous feelings and a weak stomach. I had been this way about a year and was unable to work or stand on my feet for any length of time. My husband's aunt told me how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her and begged me to try it, so I did. All my pains and weakness are gone, my stomach is all right and I do my work at home and also work for Swift's Packing Company. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. LULU LUCAS, 719A Vandeventer St., St. Louis, Mo.

You who work must keep yourself strong and well. You can't work if you are suffering from such troubles. Mrs. Lucas couldn't. She tried our Vegetable Compound and her letter tells you what it did for her. Give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial now.

Taking Needless Chances

As we learn more about the tragedy of the Roma the impression that it was a wicked waste of life is deepened. Lieutenant Clifford Smythe, who lost his life in the disaster, declared in a recent letter that "the Roma behaved so badly on her first trial over Washington that she was declared unsafe and a majority of those on board were advised to make the return trip by train. If anything has been done to alter her, except to change her engines, I don't know what it is. It looks like criminal negligence to fly her again without making changes in her construction."

Obvious to any layman is the folly of using highly inflammable hydrogen gas instead of non-inflammable helium. If the latter had been employed the loss of life would certainly have been greatly reduced, and perhaps altogether prevented. Congress and the military authorities are busily shifting the responsibility to one another for our failure to develop and utilize our huge sources of this gas, which can be manufactured for ten cents a cubic foot or less and has a lifting power smaller than hydrogen's by only 6 per cent.

On the heels of this disaster comes the experts' report on the loss of the R-38, which declares that the stresses incidental to flight were not considered; that she was built to stand still, but not to move. The country has had quite enough needless slaughter of American men thru failure to provide a sufficient factor of safety. Experiments with lighter-than-air craft must and will be continued; but we have been paying too dear a price, and needlessly.

Resting On Their Laurels

SAYS The New York World: On the same day but at places as far apart as Washington and Boston, two Senators had the same great thot. "More was done by the conference," said Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge, "for the world's peace in twelve weeks than has been done anywhere in * * * twice as many years." Mr. McCormick, on the other hand, asserted that in twelve weeks the conference did more for peace and good-will than the League of Nations did in * * * "the three * * * twelve months of its existence." The difference betwee[n] Lodge's twenty-four years and Mr. McCormick's thirty-[m]onths may be put down to the fact that the Senator from Massachusetts was boasting at home in the family circle. Both Senators meant to utter the same idea. They were both saying with as little modesty as they could command that Republicans could do in twelve weeks what others could not do at all, no matter how long or how hard they tried.

Comparisons are odious, but they cannot be avoided since two such high authorities have apparently adopted for campaign purposes the slogan, "More has been accomplished in twelve weeks than." It is permissible, therefore, to remind these two spokesmen of a few significant differences between the twelve weeks at Washington and the five months at Paris. One conference met at the end of the most terrible war in history, the other three years later. One met in the capital of a devastated country, the other in the capital of a country unscathed and unafraid and proudly conscious of its strength. One met to impose terms of peace on four enemy powers, the other to maintain peace among friendly powers. One dealt with a continent in which four or five hundred million people had no stable government, no stable frontiers, no stable leadership, racked by suffering, intoxicated with hope and seething with faction. The other dealt with scattered islands in a great ocean inhabited chiefly by docile savages. One dealt with the most vital interests of all the great military powers of the world, the other touched in a very gingerly manner the absolutely vital interests of only one great power—Japan.

More was done in twelve weeks with a comparatively easy problem than in twenty-five weeks with an infinitely difficult one. But not everything was done in those twelve weeks by a long, long way. And if you examine the things which Washington tried to do and failed, they bear a very strong resemblance to the things Paris tried to do and failed. Both of them tried to reduce land armaments. Both failed utterly. Paris tried to bring order out of chaos in Central and Eastern Europe. Washington tried to bring order out of chaos in China and Siberia. Did Washington do more with Manchuria and Mongolia than Paris did with the wreckage of the Austro-Hungarian Empire? Did Washington do more with the Russian problem in Siberia than Paris did with the Russian problem in Europe? Washington restored Shantung to China as a result of a promise obtained at Paris. Paris restored Alsace-Lorraine to France, the Trentino and Istria to Italy, Schleswig to Denmark, Polish soil to Poland, Czechish soil to the Czechs. Paris made many bad frontiers, in the Tyrol, in the Balkans, in Turkey, in the Danube Valley. Does Senator Lodge know what he has done in the Maritime Province, and does he remember what he did not even attempt to do in Corea, in Sakhalin?

Washington achieved a very great result in ending competition in capital ships. It achieved a fine result in persuading four powers to settle their differences in the Pacific by conference. But it was something for Paris to have persuaded fifty-one sovereign nations to settle all their differences everywhere by conference. It is true that they have not settled all their differences thru the League. They have settled some. But what guarantee has Senator Lodge to offer that China and Russia, excluded from the four-power treaty, as Germany and Russia were excluded from the League, will settle their inevitable future differences with Japan thru the agency of the Pacific Conference?

What does all this prove? Nothing, except that the comparison is absurd, for it consists in an attempt to compare two quite different things. Mr. Lodge might almost as well go about the country saying that Babe Ruth is a better ball-player than Marshal Foch is a soldier, that Capablanca is a better chess-player than Warren G. Harding is a statesman, that Henry Cabot Lodge is a better Senator than Mary Pickford is an actress, that Boston is more cultured than the Grand Canyon is impressive or that the Woolworth Building is taller than the speed of an aeroplane, the number of Republican votes in 1920 or the deposits of the Federal Reserve Banks.

But it was not merely the results that the Senators were discussing. It was "the fact" that "under a Republican President" more was done in twelve weeks, &c. Now on this point about the relative competence of the two parties, The World has no wish to be dogmatic. It has supported the League which a Democrat devised and the treaties which the Republicans have just writen. It suspects that, except for occasional individual genius which appears without respect to party lines, intelligence and good-will are fairly well divided.

But if the Senators really insist on a comparison, they have a superb opportunity to try it out. Peace was not made in Europe in five months. Peace has not yet been made in Europe, tho there has been progress. Why not devote twelve weeks to Europe, demonstrate the miraculous competence of Mr. Lodge, and incidentally restore a market for the American farmer and the American business man? We should be willing to give him twice twelve weeks. We should be willing to give him anything he wants except the right to go about the country boasting of what his party could do if only it tried, but refusing in any circumstance to risk its laurels by making a try.

That Tired Feeling

Is Just As Much a Warning as "Stop, Look and Listen."

It indicates run-down conditions and means that you must purify your blood, renew your strength-tone and your "power of resistance," or be in great danger of serious sickness, the grip, flu, fevers, contagious and infectious diseases.

Do not make light of it. It is serious. Give it attention at once. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. He knows this good old family medicine is for that tired feeling, loss of appetite, debility. It is an all-the-year-round medicine, wonderfully effective in the treatment of scrofula, catarrh, rheumatism and run-down after-disease conditions.

"My husband has taken Hood's Sarsaparilla every spring for years, and it always puts him in shape. He is 58 years old." Mrs. N. Campbell, Decatur, Ill.

OVERCOMES THAT TIRED FEELING, BUILDS UP HEALTH

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 25—Down near the Brooklyn Bridge is a tiny Arab Africa quarter occupying several blocks of short-run streets— a quarter that despite the open shrill of its market symphony and high pitched laughter is as mysterious as the muslin veiled, muted women who trudge he paves.

At night the bazaars catching the glint from the hundreds of banjo-torches sparkle with color and beauty. There are latticed stalls piled high with rugs in shifting patterns, attar bottles of all hues, necklaces, ear rings, anklets, laces and silks.

Turbaned, vulpine men with parchment faces haggle with each customer and puff incessantly at their cigarettes. If the customer turns away they follow him to the fringe of the district, beseeching in bastard mixtures of Arabic, English and French.

In front of the improvised mosque are half-clad beggars cringing in the shadows and crying out their misery to passers-by. In the doorways sit cross legged the scant bearded old men puffing at narghiles and as expressionless as the Sphinx.

The air is filled with the heavy scent of musk. There is the soft beat of drums—always for off—and that East minor wail of the Arabian night song. The table d'hotes are filled with Occidentals, trembling slummers in awe of the eerie magic of the quarter.

In front of one house a group of Moors in native costume made a semi-circle and chanted, now and then kneeling and turning impassive faces toward the East. In the house Yussef lay dead. Yussef, the nomad tumbler, who jumps three camels in a row—a top mounter with a troupe on Broadway. And then one night he missed.

It is all an Arabian night in Manhattan—a caravan that once herded sheep underneath Morocco's moon transplanted with all their vivid color and romance in the modern Bagdad on the Subway.

A new matinee idol, Georges Renevaunt a tall black haired French boy who has been here only a short while I saw him on Forty Second street the other afternoon wearing a plum colored overcoat with a white fur collar and a long-visored cap, pleated around the edges and bagging jauntily over one side. His cane was strapped to his wrist and he puffed from a cigarette holder that was at least a foot and a half long. One could almost hear the flutter of femmine hearts as he passed along.

Tin pan alley has been hit by the uplift. The composers of catch penny tunes confess that they adhor jazz and do not write such stuff. They blame the dansant orchestras who take perfectly innocent moon and spoon melodies and fill them with moaning saxaphone strains and cow bell interpolations. Jerome Kern, who is responsible for several Broadway musical hits, was in a cafe the other night and heard three of his tunes. He says he did not recognize them.

Gombussy's Flea Bag, the notorious Bowery lodging house, has lost its oldest boarder. Tripper Quirk has gone to a farm up-state to reside the remainder of his days. Tripper was a street hawker and had his pitch on Bleecker street where he sold a corn salve. He was a picturesque figure in his wide sombrero, white boiled shirt, shoe string tie and faded black frock suit. For 21 years he lived in the shabby, dim-lit Flea Bag. "Most all of my good friends have tired of the game and shuffled off with poison or the bullet" he said. Tripper had saved $100 and he says he can live comfortably the rest of his life on that at the place to which he is going.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

AGAIN THE FAMILIAR VOICE

Editor Tribune & Times-Age:

In the editorial column of the Tribune under the headline, "Senator Day's Platform," in which reference is made to his proposed platform, should he decide to be a candidate for Governor of Ohio, and, of course, as you say the Senator "refrains from advising the people of Ohio how as Governor he proposes to put his program into effect," but it is not his lack of how he would do it, but your proposition for a cure all which in a nut shell is "Place the burden of taxation upon ground rent," or in other words single tax. Now after boiling down all propositions in Senator Day's platform according to your diagnosis it amounts to nothing more or less than a "catch-all for votes." Now let us see about what your program would be when boiled down. If I mistake not about the first thing you would do would be to propose, first "The repeal of certain laws," second, That people is governed best which is governed least, third, This country needs a rest from government. Listen! "It is now the aim of all aspirants to office to offer the people protection by legislation, relief by legislation, the prices of crops and commodities fixed by legislation, a competency for all age assured by legislation, but none of them ever thought of the solution of the fathers of giving to the people less of government and more of simple, unadulterated freedom, and then trusting them to take care of themselves."

Further, "We have purposely refrained until now from mentioning the eight planks in Mr Day's published program" which reads as follows "Such taxation reform as will bring relief to those now paying a dispro portionate share in the upkeep of government." Now, from your comment would seemingly amount to this nothing sane, scientific, or fundamental about his platform

Now, let me say in conclusion that I never thot very much of this one idea business. The carpenter that claims all the tools needed to build a home is a cross-cut saw, if he should really think so will find out his mistake soon after commencing the job. The young man who conceives the idea that he would like to be a doctor and claims all that will be needed to fit for the business is a pillbag and a few pills will certainly find out he is mistaken.

And so we might finish up on single tax for a cure all for all government ills only to find out in the end that a mistake was made. The perfect and beautiful man or woman is perfect and beautiful because of the uniformity of supply and demand by the laws of perfection. So no government can be ideal or beautiful without a uniformity of supply and demand by each and all parts contributing their mite by way of taxation. Wherever you find uniformity you find the beautiful.

STILL WORSE

When I paid up my income tax, a few brief days ago, some wild alases and alacks I uttered in my woe; I had to pay a frightful sum, a tribute much too vast, I for a time was stricken numb, and male to stand aghast. I have to earn my scanty reeks by long and patient toil, by packing sonnets in a box, and burning midnight oil. And so it tars me when I find how great a goat I am: the product of my weary grind must go to Uncle Sam. I said, "I'll seek some other land, some quiet place abroad, where tax collectors do not stand and rob man of his wad." I tried to locate such a shore—there's no such place of bliss; in other lands they tax men more than we are taxed in this. A poet on a foreign strand who earns three bucks a day, would find an officer at hand to take two bucks away. However great our griefs may be, however fierce they seem, they're twice as bad across the sea, where eagles do not scream. So let us bear our trifling load and cease to tear our hair, and gambol up and down the road, our coattails in the air.

PROHIBITION IS TOO REVOLUTIONARY, SAYS AMBASSADOR HARVEY

PORTSMOUTH, ENG., Feb. 21. —The American brand of prohibition is too revolutionary for the human race, according to a statement attributed to George Harvey, ambassador to England.

According to the newspaper carrying the statement the prohibition of all traffic in alcoholic drinks was too violent for the habits of the people in the opinion of the American diplomat. The statement was attributed to Mr. Harvey, that prohibition would have to be modified before it could be reconciled to public opinion.

The ambassador was quoted as saying that he preferred England's plan for dealing with the drink problem, altho he would never vote for repeal of American prohibition. Time and regeneration will establish prohibition as on of the principles of American government, the ambassador was quoted as saying.

AMERICA COMPLAINS TO JAPAN OF OPIUM SMUGGLING TO U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—The United States has made a formal protest to the Japanese government against the smuggling of opium, morphine, heroine and other narcotics into this country by means of Japanese steamships it was learned authoritatively today.

Replying to the American complaint, the Tokio foreign office has informed this government that every effort will be made to prevent illegal traffic in drugs and has requested Japanese shipowners to co-operate in suppressing the traffic.

The state department is understood to have brot the matter to the attention of the Japanese government some time ago following complaints from narcotic agents in San Francisco and Seattle, that great quantities of drugs were finding their way into the hands of American venders thru sailors employed on Japanese ships.

There is no effective way of preventing this at the various ports, as it is physically impossible to keep under surveillance every sailor who gets shore leave from his ship. The Japanese reply to the American protest, recited that the Japanese shipowners' association called a meeting of its members and resolutions were passed requiring closest inspection of ships before sailing for American ports.

The shipowners' association also requested the Tokio government to keep under surveillance certain drug dealers suspected of supplying narcotics to outbound sailors and this the government agreed to do.

SENATE'S VOTE ON FOUR POWER PACT COMES SATURDAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24—A compromise reservation to the four power Pacific treaty was agreed on today by President Harding and Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, Republican, irreconcilable member of the senate foreign relations committee.

After about an hour's session, the committee reached an agreement to vote finally tomorrow on the Pacific pact and on all reservations, or amendments offered thereto.

It was first proposed that final action on the treaty should be taken today but Senator Johnson of California, one of the Republican irreconcilables urged it be deferred until tomorrow.

Senator Pomerene, Democrat, of Ohio, then made a formal motion that a final vote on the treaty and all matters pertaining to it, be taken tomorrow. Pomerene's motion was unanimously agreed to.

The compromise resolution was regarded by the administration with favor. It was pointed out by them that the reservation merely expressed what the president and administration spokesmen had contended all along, that the president does not commit the United States to employ armed force or to join in the defense of Pacific possessions not its own.

By Republican irreconcilables, the resolution was considered an admission that the United States was not properly safeguarded against such a commitment by the treaty itself.
